DNA Research Given Limited Approval, But Borough Balks at Okaying P-3 Level

Princeton University has received a limited endorsement from Borough Council to begin re-combinant DNA research immediately at two relatively low levels of risk – the so-called P-1 and P-2 levels of physical containment. Council voted, 4-2, however, to initiate drafting of an ordinance that would ban DNA research at the P-3 level for one year while another DNA committee monitored the activities at the lower levels and acquired more information on the experiences of other institutions already conducting P-3 research.

Nelson van den Blink, who had argued for a moratorium on all DNA research, and William K. Selden, who had hoped that the University would receive the green light for research at all three levels, both voted against the motion, though for obviously opposite reasons.

The action took place at Tuesday night's joint meeting with Township Committee, at which all parties, including the University, had hoped that definitive joint action would be taken. Committee voted, 3-1, with Josie Hall dissenting, to approve the major recommendations of the citizens DNA committee and permit the University to perform all three levels of research.

Council missed that opportunity, however, in part by what appeared to be semantic confusion between Mr. Selden and Mayor Robert Cawley. Councilwoman Leona Medvin moved early in the evening that Council accept the majority report of the DNA committee.

Mrs. van den Blink, Gus Escher and Martin Lombardo voted against it. Mrs. Medvin and Richard Woodbridge supported it. Mr. Selden's sympathy was clearly with it, but he wondered about certain specifics, talked back and forth with Mr. Cawley about how binding Council's approval would be, and finally abstained. Had he cast the tying vote, Mr. Cawley could have decided in favor of the DNA committee's recommendations. The Mayor had released a one-page statement earlier in which he supported the committee's recommendations.

Ordinance Needed. The result is that the Borough must now write an ordinance that will spell out exactly how it and that will define the responsibilities of the new committee. That was expected to take weeks, perhaps pected to take v eeks, perhaps, followed by more weeks for public hearing and enactment.

Members of the DNA committee present felt that their work had been largely scorned as a result of Council's vote. University biologists said they also were frustrated by the additional delay at the P-3 level. Those who opposed any DNA research were disgruntled that any DNA research had been approved by the action.

Positions of the other Council and Committee people followed lines of division that had become apparent in the weeks and days before the meeting.

'Delay Harmful.' Mr. Selden, in a statement released before the meeting, praised the work of the special DNA committee and expressed his appreciation to the University "for its sensitive and conscientious concern for the attitudes, interests and welfare of the community."

"Princeton University has a world-wide reputation for its teaching and research contributions and should not be prevented by governmental bodies from pursuing this mission," he continued. "Some educators have considered that the University has been tardy in entering the field of bio-chemistry in which other universities have already established reputations. A further delay in Princeton's decision to expand its efforts in this area of iniquity would be harmful to the growth of the local institution on which the citizens of this community are so dependent for many benefits."

He urged the establishment of a Joinl Committee on Research with Biohazardous Materials charged to advise the mayors and the governing bodies "on any issues related to such research in the community." Mr. Selden added that the committee should work through the Princeton Regional Health Commission.

Any other educational or commercial organization conducting DNA research should be required, Mr. Selden argued, to "register this fact ...with the local health department; comply with all federal, state, or local regulations that provide for the health and safety of all citizens...; establish an institutional committee that directly supervises the conduct of such research...; agree to permit the Council and Committee each to appoint a liaison individual to sit with such institutional committees and to make all information related to such research available to these liaison individuals...; and comply with all ordinances and regulations that may from time to time be adopted" by the Council and the Committee.

"Political Advantage." Mr. Selden theorized that those against the DNA research proposal were motivated partly on political grounds. "There's a political advantage in appearing to protect the public by saying 'no' to the gargantuan beast, the University."

Those who supported the DNA majority report appeared to be impressed, as Mr. Selden was, with the safeguards and the care that the University was offering without any pressure from the municipalities. "The University leaned over backward for us on the P-1 and P-2 research when it didn't have to get any permission," said Mr. Selden. For the proposed P-3 research, which would be contained in the new science building, the University of course did need the permission of the governing boards with jurisdiction over any new building.

"But the P-1 and P-2 research could be done at the high school," exclaimed Mr. Selden.

Mayor Cawley said he was satisfied with the University's safeguards at all levels of research, including the P-3. "Not only am I convinced that there is no unusual safety hazard left unprotected but I am very mindful that this issue is in many ways a first –a first time in which there is serious possibility of restricting the pursuit of knowledge."

PARKING STUDY SET

Garage Over Spring St.? Before turning its collective attention to the sensitive question of DNA research, Borough Council Tuesday night passed an ordinance authorizing payment of $7,800 for a feasibility study on the proposed multi-level parking garage spanning Spring Street, where the existing parking yards are located.

Such a structure now is shown on the Borough master plan and a decision to implement that part of the plan at this time could influence the actions of several other developments in the Borough.

"It's a pretty high priority item because we're holding up the Princeton Community Housing proposal for the Palmer Square area," Mayor Robert Cawley said at his weekly press conference Tuesday morning. PCH would like to build apartments in the parking lot next to the Playhouse on Palmer Square. To do that PCH must replace the parking spots that are lost and then add at least one for every three dwelling units it adds in that area.

"Once we are committed to building this garage that solves PCH's parking problem entirely," said the mayor. "They then could come forth with their proposals and seek the necessary approval."

Reconstruction of the Benson Building, the structure on the corner of Witherspoon and Spring streets, also could be affected by the addition of a parking garage. "There is some possibility being considered by Benson of a more intensive development there," said the Mayor. "They are hanging on what we do."

Parking Demand Studied. The ordinance authorizes a Cleveland, Ohio planning firm, E.A. Barton, to assess current demand for parking by counting cars in existing lots and on streets outside the central business district used by people who work in the district; to forecast the future demand for parking by predicting growth in population and commercial and downtown office space; and to evaluate the economics of a garage and recommend financing mechanisms.

If that sounds like a lot of consulting work for $7,800, it is. Mayor Cawley said he expected the ordinance would have to be amended to authorize the allocation of more funds for the consultant to answer all the Borough's questions. The work is con-

FRASCATI WINES

Frascati (Frahs–scot–tee) is the favorite white wine of Rome. The attractive town of Frascati lies south of Rome in the Alban hills.

Frascati is a dry wine, yet it has a pleasant tinge of fruitiness which makes this a charming companion to a dish such as roast porks. Frascati is a recognized favorite in the American market and usually has an alcoholic content of 12%.

Frascati is also produced as a sweet (amabile) wine but the "seeco" (say–co) dry Frascati is the better of the two.

Frascati, which is the best known of the Castelli Romani wines is produced mainly from the Trebbiano grape and is a very agreeable wine - not a great wine in the sense of greatness associated with a Montrachet or Mersault, but a charming everyday wine that is sure to please. Should be served chilled.

Town Dump

brush pile to disgorge prickly piles of garden clippings, Mr. Allen smilingly helps unload the long steek station wagons with the owner's initials or the estate name on the door, as well as the litlle Volkswagen Beelles. When the rains turn the dirt road to treacherous mud, he will put bundles into the shovel of his bulldozer and cart them down to the dumping area bimself so that a car owner won't be mired in the mud.

Wbere Next? When the private collectors gather to exchange news and views, Mr. Allen joins them for a while, nodding agreeably from time to time like a genial bartender listening to his customers.

Time and events bave a way of catching up with venerable institutions, even institutions like the town dump. The plt in which Mr. Allen Is now working is the last one in a four-acre site. It will be filled to its design capacity in six months; the Princetons are running out of useable tandfill space.

The landfill area consists of 150 acres, most of it purchased in the 1930s by the Sewer Operating Committee, a Township-Borough-University partnership formed to build the adjacent sewer plant and the incinerator. In the 1950s the so-called Tamarack tract was bought from the Girl Scouts who had used it as a camping ground. A cbunk of 26 acres was sold in 1976 to the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority for the huge new regional sewerage treatment plant now nearing completion in the forefront of the view to Kingston.

MAN OF MANY FRIENDS: George Allan hes a chaerful wave end a werm smlle for ell who come to unloed brush end non-burnebles et tha town dump on River Road. With his bulldozar, he is responsible for tha day-to-dey operation of the lendfill site, en eree which is running out of useebla land et a faster rate then had been anticipeted.

Two landfill sites of eigbt acres each have already been used to their capacity, one in the '40s-'50s and the other in the '60s, and this third area is reaching its limit. A report prepared in 1974 by an Ad Hoc Joint Solid Waste Management Study Committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Marion Moffat predicted that "The Princeton landfill, which at present is taking care of less than 20 percent of Princeton-generated waste, has a life-expectancy, at the present rate of use, of only about five years."

Land Too Rocky. tn 1976 funds were budgeted to conduct test borings of other possible sites within the acreage, but the results, just in, have proved to be disappointing. A key D.E.P. regulation states that in order to be licensed as a dumping ground, a new landfill site must have 10 feet of good earth above rock and no ground water present. Eight borings were taken at different locations.

Several showed as little as three feet of soil before hitting shale, and only one revealed more than 10 feet. "It is amazing how we have gone from what we thought was unlimited landfill to nothing in a hurry," commented Township Committeeman David Blair, a member of SOC since January.

"The situation is bleak but not disastrous," says George Olexa, Borough Engineer who is also sanitary engineer for the Sewer Operating Committee, "but the majorlty of the land is not going to be useable for us." There is a two-acre densely wooded parcel north of the new sewerage treatment plant and adjacent to the landfill road which tested at 18 feet. Mr. Olexa says that by digging down eight feet and filling up 10 feet, and by continuing the current policy of putting more of Princeton's trash through tbe compactor in the incinerator to be trucked 10 miles away to the commercial landfill site in South Brunswick Townshlp, this site could last approximately five to six years.

Another alternative is to use the '40s-'50s site close by the new sewerage treatment plant, an area which is 8 to 10 feet lower in elevation than site 2, the '50s-'60s area or the current '60s-'70s site. This area, says Mr. Olexa, is probably as compressed as it will ever be, and therefore dikes of earth from the Stony Brook excavation could be birmed up and additional landfill added to it, up to 8 or 10 feet. Mr. Olexa told members of the Sewer Operating Committee at an informal information session last week that he plans to suggest these two alternatives be considered by the D.E.P. for licensing as landfill sites.

New Law Frtday. Both alternatives are stop-gap measures, however. State legislation has been enacted and goes into effect Friday which requires every county to develop its own solid waste plan within a certain time period and allocates funds for the studies. Mercer County must file its solid waste management plan by December of 1978. "Maybe," says Mr. Olexa, "the county's plan will be so financjally attractive and convenient for us to use that we will go out of the landfill business."

But with tbe experience of the lengthy delays in getting the Stony Brook regionalized sewerage collection and treatment plant "on line" fresh in his mind, he knows it may be some time before such a plan is put into effect. "Getting something approved by D.E.P. is not an easy task," he says wryly.

Meanwhile it has been suggested that a brush chipper at a cost of $20,000 would help prolong the life of that portion of the landfill site which ever since the ban on backyard burning in 1971 has been filling up at a proportionately faster rate. Mr. Olexa feels that even if the Princetons subscribe to a county-wide solid waste system, it will still be necessary to keep the brush pile as well as the transfer station.

Mr. Olexa and Cliff Bischoff, one of the two University representatives to the Sewer Operating Committee, recently went to Monmouth County to watch a Resource Recovery unit at work. Constructed with Federal Revenue Sharing Funds at a cost of $2½ million, it is a two-sided operation in which trucks dump their load onto a conveyor belt leading into a grinder. Garbage is shredded into particles "the size of your fist" and then is passed over magnetic drums which remove the ferrous metals before the remainder is compacted and landfilled.

Mr. Olexa speculates that such a unit will be what the Mercer County Improvement Authority, the body that is charged with creating the master plan for solid waste, will select. Such technology is impressive to contemplate but the personal services of a man like George Allen will be sorely missed by many.

And what of the filled up dump areas and the adjoining unuseable areas? Open Space? Or a location for Open Housing? They may have a useful future.

Prizes Totalling $5,000 Offered for Best Plans On Development of 165-Acre Tract in Township

Bryce Thompson, the Princeton real estate man specializing in buying and selling of land, owns a 165-acre piece on the east side of Mount Lucas Road near the Township's northern boundary. He'd like to develop it. The question is How?

The answer is worth $5,000 to Mr. Thompson, who is offering that much money in prizes in an unusual architectural competition he is sponsoring. "Most architectural competitions are done on building designs," he said. "The architects I have talked to have never heard of one being held for a land plan."

Mr. Thompson explained that "the normal developer goes in with one thing in mind: To maximize his profit. He's not looking for other things. If I were going into Ohio for a one-shot deal I might do that, too. But I've owned this land for 19 years. I'm going to be living around here. My kids are here and they are sixth generation Princetonians."

In addition to those altruistic aims, Mr. Thompson hopes the plans submitted by competing architectural firms might suggest new uses for the land not now allowed under Township zoning. It is currently zoned for offices and research, but not residential.

"It is the intent of this competition to encourage ideas for the potential development of the described property," the contest rules state. "Proposed ideas may include not only those uses defined by prevailing ordinance, but also any other land use as the competitor may deem appropriate and economically viable."

Housing Encouraged. "While housing is not a permitted use under the present zoning, exploring the viability of a housing concept as it might apply in this location is encouraged."

About 25 architects showed up at a lunch last week at which Mr. Thompson explained the rules of the game. By early this week he had received a dozen entries. The first prize is $2,000; second and third place finishers receive $1,000 apiece; and two runners-up each get $500.

Serving as professional adviser for the competition, in which the architectural firms will be identified only by number, is the Princeton architecture firm of Holt-Morgan-Schwartz.

The rules of the game state that Mr. Thompson does not guarantee that the winning entry or any other entry "will result in a contract to perform architectural design services for the project. It is, however, the intent of this competition to explore the development potential of the land with the purpose of 'attracting' a purchaser who would in turn assume the responsibility for its development."

Contracts Possible. "It is entirely possible, therefore, that the winning entries might, because of their work, be selected to proceed further into final design and construction documents under contract with the purchaser."

The chance of getting that kind of business and recognition apparently fuels the architectural firms as much as Mr. Thompson's prize money. His risk, of course, is that none of the plans will be satisfactory from his point of view. "It may all look terrific but not be practical at all," he says.

Five finalists in the competition will be notified August 1. Deadline for the presentation of final plans will be September 16. By the end of that month Mr. Thompson expects to notify the winners.

Edith V. Francis

MRS. FRANCIS NAMED

Ewing School Superintendent. Edith V. Francis, who for the past year served as acting superintendent of the Princeton schools, this week was named superintendent of the Ewing Township Public Schools. Her appointment culminates what the Ewing Board of Education termed "a long and difficult selection process which involved 88 applicants," eight of whom were interviewed by the board.

"Although each candidate possessed various educational strengths and experiences, Mrs. Francis appeared to be tailor-made for Ewing," the school board there said in a statement announcing her appointment.

The former principal of Princeton's Riverside School, Mrs. Francis was named acting superintendent following the resignation almost exactly a year ago of Philip McPherson, who had been under pressure from the Princeton board.

Mrs. Francis was a candidate for the superintendent's position in Princeton, which was filled instead by the appointment of Paul Houston, who assumes his duties officially this Friday.

Mrs. Francis was educated in the New York City public schools and received her B.A.,

She served as an adjunct professor for audio-visual education, a supervisor of instruction of both the elementary and secondary levels of education, an assistant director of the Hunter College Campus Schools in New York City and Principal of Hunter College Elementary School before coming to Princeton.

She is a member of the Board of Directors of the Princeton Public Library, chairperson of the Education Bicentennial Committee, member of the Board of Directors of the Hunter College Scholarship and Welfare Fund, and a member of the Shiloh Baptist Church in Trenton.

At the Crossroads

The Fourth of July
Seems to mark a high
Point in the summer.
We've been weather-lucky
Up 'til now--the rest
May be a bummer!

Weather-lucky is right! It's hard to recall a June when a light blanket has occasionally been welcome at night, when thermometer readings around dawn have been in the mid 50s, and when the mean temperature for a traditionally hot month have been below normal.

Showers to break the trend toward higher humidity are likely during the late afternoon and evening for the next two or three days, the Man reports. June ends Thursday, July is expected to follow, and chances are the month will be marked by a number of those 90-degree days the summer has failed to provide so far.

Mrs. Francis belongs to, or has been a member of, every major educational professional association in New Jersey including the New Jersey Schoolmasters Club and Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc.

The gifted child has been the focus of her publications, collaborating on the book entitled "Educating Gifted Children" and writing the pamphlet "Gifted Children As We See Them." She has given more than 50 lectures.

Honors and Awards. She was named "Woman of the Year" by Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity and Zeta Phi Beta Sorority; the recipient of two honorary doctor degrees, one in the field of Arts Philosophy by the World University and the other in the area of Humanity of Arts by the American Bible College of New York. She is listed in Who's Who in Education as well as the Hunter College Hall of Fame.

Dr. Francis is married and has two children, Deborah Ann, a third year honor medical student, and Dwayne, a high school senior. Her husband, Gilbert Francis, is the former director of the New Jersey Division of Civil Rights.

VIELAND CASE SETTLED

Board Pays $17,750. Constance Vieland, who had battled the Princeton School Board in several arenas ever since it fired her from the position of director of staff services two years ago, this week met with Board President Dietrich Meyerhofer and signed an agreement settling their differences, apparently once and for all.

The board will pay Dr. Vieland $17,750. Dr. Vieland has agreed to drop her petition before the State Commissioner of Education in which she claimed she was owed an administrative sabbatical and that she should be rehired either as the district's resource teacher or as assistant to the superintendent.

She also has agreed to drop her petitions before the New Jersey Division of Civil Rights and before the Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in which she claimed she had been discriminated against because of sex.

Those petitions were filed in conjunction with Virginia Euell, who was dismissed from her job as Middle School principal. Miss Euell, who is arguing also that she was illegally fired from a job in which she had tenure, is still pressing her case before the Commissioner of Education.

A case involving Elaine Solomon, former director of the Wednesday program, also is still pending.

Took Pay Cuts. Dr. Vieland already had won a ruling from the Commissioner of Education saying that she had been fired illegally. The board appealed that ruling to the State Board of Education, which upheld Dr. Vieland's position, and then appealed that to the State Appelate Division, where it was pending at the time of the settlement.

sidered a professional service and does not have to be opened to competitive bidding.

A preliminary draft report is due 60 days after authorization. That report, said the mayor, "will probably give us all the information we need to go ahead."

Construction, of course, would not be possible before considerable amounts of further discussion. "We would have to have some kind of bond ordinance, an engineering design, and then public hearings on the building itself," Mr. Cawley said. "Assuming the most favorable circumstances I can't imagine this thing getting started before the winter."

Rent Levelling. "By October 1 we should know if we are going to build a garage and, if so, where," he said.

In other matters covered at the press conference, the mayor said his personal feeling is that the rent levelling ordinance should be allowed "to go by the boards." A meeting on the subject was being held Wednesday at 8 in Borough Hall.

"We're at the point where, if we are going to do something with the ordinance, we have to move soon. My sense is that it hasn't been hurtful, it has not cost us much, but that it hasn't been very effective either.

"We still might want to have some sort of person up here at Borough Hall dealing with tenant-landlord problems," Mayor Cawley continued. "A lot of people have come in with concerns that are outside the bounds of the ordinance. It might be a service to the public to have someone who is a resource on state and federal regulations that apply to tenants and landlords."

Mr. Cawley also announced that Councilwoman Leona Medvin was attempting to bring the Lions Club together with the Council and Township Committee in hopes of working out an agreement on the question of installing lights on the Little League field.

The board's appeal also is being dropped as part of the settlement.

Dr. Vieland said that, because she was dismissed from her administrative position and had to take a position as middle school psychologist instead, she took pay cuts totalling $14,500 in the past two years.

Plus, she said, "I don't know how you put a dollar value on the work that has been disrupted," referring to the career she had followed in her 10 years as director of staff services and coordinator of programs for staff development.

"Now my work has taken a different twist," she added. She will be the high school psychologist beginning this September and also will lecture at Rutgers Graduate School of Psychology.

BOARD WEIGHS NAMES

For Renovations Committee. The Princeton Regional School Board, which had been expected to appoint 12 to 15 citizens to a committee that would study the question of renovating the high school, delayed that action at Tuesday night's meeting.

"We still have to talk about some names and then we have to ask those people if they are interested in serving," explained Board president Dietrich Meyerhofer.

To be called the Princeton High School Bond Referendum Advisory Committee, the group is expected to consist of one member each representing Borough and Township and appointed by the mayors; representatives of the high school staff and the PTO; and from four to seven community members selected by the Board. Borough Mayor Robert Cawley announced Tuesday he was still looking for a volunteer and the school board also apparently was considering possibilities.

The board also discussed increases that it might recommend for the 1978-79 school year budget, so that the school's business manager, Ronald Novak, could begin work on preparing outlines for that budget that must be studied by administrators beginning in September.

Tentatively scheduled to meet every other week through July and August, the school board will convene next on Tuesday, July 12.

FUSION WORK ADVANCES

At Forrestal Campus. Steps were taken last week to begin construction of the world's largest fusion test reactor at the James Forrestal Campus of Princeton University. The reactor, the laboratory in which it will be built, and auxiliary buildings will cost about $228 million to construct and are expected to be completed by 1981.

The reactor, which will be operated as part of the University's Plasma Physics Laboratory, will play an important role in the Federal Energy Research and Development Administration's national program to develop nuclear fusion as a feasible means of producing electrical energy.

Last week Princeton signed a $100 million contract with a

Monday Is July 4 - But No Fireworks

The American Legion, which annually sponsored the bursts of color in the skies over Palmer Stadium accompanied by the deep booms which were a source of delight or fright, depending on your age and sensitivity, will not stage fireworks in Princeton this year.

After the July 1974 display, the Legion decided it could no longer absorb the mounting costs – and the occasional losses when the weather was bad – of enlisting experts in pyrotechnics. There were no fireworks in 1975.

Then in 1976 a great hue and cry arose insisting that the Bicentennial Fourth of July could not pass without fireworks. Community support was enlisted, merchants agreed to underwrite any loss and the Jaycees undertook the job of traffic control. Tickets were at a Bicentennial bargain of $1 and added interest was sparked by the appearance of two drum and bugle corps.

D. Don Richards of the American Legion says that he hopes to reorganize a committee so that "bigger and better fireworks" can take place next year. Meanwhile, the next best thing is the Pops Concert by the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra to be held Sunday evening in the fields next to Jadwin Gym. As a grand finale to Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture," canon booms and rocket flares written into the score by the composer will be staged by the specialists who have been responsible for spectaculars at Jones Beach Marine Theater on Long Island.

New York City nuclear engineering firm, Ebasco Services Inc., to design and build the reactor itself. Site preparation on the Forrestal Campus, which is located on the east side of Route 1 several miles north of Penns Neck, has been underway for about one month.

This project bas been compared in significance to Enrico Fermi's demonstration of the fission process at Stagg Field in Chicago during World War II.

The new reactor "will be a transition from the laboratory to the real world," says Melvin B. Gottlieb, director of the Plasma Phsyics Laboratory. It "represents the culmination of 25 years of work here and around the world."

'Break-Even' Reaction. The laboratory already operates a $14 million test reactor, called a Tokamak, which is the largest in the world. The new reactor will be more than twice as large, and will operate at a temperature of 100 million degrees, compared to 25 million currently.

Dr. Gottlieb says that the new reactor is expected to be the first in tbe world to create a "break-even" fusion reaction, one in which as much energy is created as is consumed in operation.

If the operation of this test reactor is successful, it could lead to the development of a demonstration fusion power plant by the late 1990s, Dr. Gottlieb estimates.

HOSPITAL GARAGE OK'D

By Planning Board. In a quiet meeting Monday night the Princeton Regional Planning Board granted the Medical Center conditional use, site plan, and bulk variances for its proposed parking garage.

The conditional use variance was approved by a vote of 6-1 with one abstention by Harry Sayen, who was not allowed to vote because he had not participated in the last hearing.

Opposing the conditional use variance for the proposed 395-car toll garage on Henry Avenue was Elizabeth Hutter, who questioned whether or not the garage would be better located elsewhere. She also felt more consideration should have been given to the Shopping Center parking lot as an alternative, with shuttle bus service provided back and forth to the hospital.

Once that conditional use variance was approved, however, Mrs. Hutter joined the board in granting unanimous approval of the site plan and bulk variances.

Chairman Margaret Penick asked for comments from the audience, which in the past has offered heated arguments over the proposal. This time no one had anything to say. The meeting ended at about 11:30.

Meeting Next Tuesday. The Planning Board approval essentially gives the Medical Center a green light on the project. The Township Zoning Board already met and granted the necessary variance last week. That vote was 6-0.

The Planning Board's next meeting will be Tuesday at 8, when it will hear a request for a conversion of a single family house on Madison Street to four family; a request for continuation of a conditional use at the Stuart School so that it may allow other groups to use its facilities over the summer; and the University's request for conditional use and site plan variances at Nassau Court, where it hopes to relocate the four houses moved from William Street as part of the building project there.

TWO GIRLS ASSAULTED

On Campus. Two teenagers, both members of the Rainbow Girls, a group using the Princeton University campus facilities last week, were assaulted in separate incidents. Police believe both were assaulted by the same man.

Around 10:30 Sunday evening, a 15-year old Beverly resident was walking with two friends and as they approached the side of 1937 Hall, she was grabbed around the waist by a man and thrown to the ground.

When her assailant jumped on top of her, the victim, police said, screamed and kicked and managed to fight him off. She was not injured.

Her assailant, who fled from the scene, was described as 19 to 20, about six feet tall, slim and wearing a red and white striped shirt.

The previous night, between 11 and midnight, a 13-year old resident of Morris Plains, accompanied by another female companion, was walking in the area of 1903 Hall when a man wearing just a T-shirt jumped from the bushes.

He grabbed the girl by the shoulders but the victim screamed and broke free. Both girls then ran off. Police said both girls gave approximately the same description of the man. Det. Timothy Huizing is continuing both investigations.

$190 BIKE IS STOLEN

From Spelman Hall. A locked, silver-blue 10-speed bicycle valued at $190 was stolen early Sunday morning from the fourth entry at Spelman Hall on the University campus. The owner discovered the theft at 3:10.

On Monday, Kip Chase, 67 Leabrook Lane, lost a $90 watch and $10 wristband which were stolen from his locker at Community Park Pool between 6 and 8:30 p.m. Police said the locker had been forced open.

Car Is Stolen. A 1969 foreign compact valued at $1,000 was stolen Friday from the driveway of its owner, Joseph McGuinn, 23 Shady Brook Drive.

Mr. McQuinn told police he had parked the car at 2 in the morning but did not report it missing until 1:47 in the afternoon because he thought, at first, that a friend might have been playing a joke on him.

TWO FIRMS ENTEHED

On Route 206. Wine Hobby USA and Econo-Car Rentals, in the same building on Route 206, were entered last week.

Wine Hobby owner Shirley Yingling told police that she noticed a metal cash box had been moved from its shelf when she arrived at the store last Monday morning. Taken were cash and a watch with a total value of $354.35.

Police said that a pane of glass in a window on the side of the building had been broken by a stone. The store was not ransacked but several desk drawers were left partially open.

The manager of Econo-Car, Jessica Florio, told police that a man's gold calendar watch that had been found in a rental car and was being held for the owner to identify was stolen. Det. Frank Boccanfuso is continuing the investigation.

A color television set valued at $313 and $10 in cash were stolen between 9 and 9:30 Thursday from a second floor bedroom of a Witherspoon Street home. Police said that a rear door had been forced to enter.

Three connecting offices of the Independent Educational Services on the second floor of 82 Nassau were entered and ransacked during the weekend.

Thirty dollars in petty cash was taken from one office and $13 from another. Police said that nothing else was reported missing. There were no signs of forced entry.

There was an attempted entry made at the Lisi Paint Store, 337 Witherspoon, between 5:30 Friday evening and Saturday morning.

Owner Sam Lisi reported that a window pane in a side door had been broken in an attempt to reach the lock but the thief had been thwarted by a large, solid sheet of plexiglas attached to the inside of the door.

TRENTON BOYS CHARGED

With Attempted Larceny. Three Trenton teenagers, two 16, one 13, have been charged by Borough police with possession of stolen property and attempted larceny. In addition, one has also been charged with possession of marijuana.

The three were seen and arrested on Nassau Street near Bayard Lane late Monday afternoon by Ptl. Gerald Patterson, Ptl. Randy Sutton and Lt. John Bellow -- just nine minutes after police were called by a Tulane Street store owner reporting that two teenagers had attempted to steal her wallet. Police received a description of the two suspects from the store owner.

At the time of their arrest, the two suspects and a third companion had in their possession a 35mm camera and pair of binoculars which were allegedly stolen from a car parked behind the Princeton Packet building, 300 Witherspoon Street.

from the wall late in the night last week by vandals.

Police had received a call at 11:47 from a Spring Street resident complaining of a noisy group on Tulane but when Sgt. Ralph Procaccino and Ptl. Victor Fasanella arrived, no one was in the area.

More vandalism occurred at the Hun School field house where stones were thrown through two 6-by-5-foot panes and two 6-foot windows of a trophy case. Police report finding rocks inside the lobby.

They said the vandals probably stood on a small hill about 20 feet from the field house. The damage was reported Saturday.

THREE ARE FINED

For Drunken Driving. At a special session of Township Court held Tuesday, Judge Philip Carchman fined three Princeton area residents for drunken driving.

Crawford Ellerbe, 14 Green Street, was fined $310 and had his license revoked for one year. He was also assigned to the Princeton AA for one year. It was his second offense.

Paul B. Diederich, 124 Quaker Road, was fined $210 and lost his license for 60 days, while James E. Jones, Camp Meeting Avenue, Skillman, was fined $310 and had his license taken for one year.

MAN FINED $210

For Drunken Driving. Richard Holland, 31 Leigh Avenue, was fined $210 and received a 90-day suspended sentence in Borougb court Monday for drunken driving. In addition, Judge Philip Carchman ordered Mr. Holland to attend a Saturday AA program.

Jeremy C. Clarke, 35 Red Oak Row, paid fines of $60 each for unregistered vehicle and unlicensed driver. Overdue inspection cost Anthony LaPlaca, 12 Hamilton Avenue, and Kevin J. Murphy, 267 Hamilton, $10 each.

TRACK PROGRAM SET

For Youth in West Windsor. For the second year the West Windsor Recreation Commission is sponsoring a summer track and field program for West Windsor and Plainsboro youth who have completed grades five through eight.

Registration will be $8 for 14 sessions to be held every Tuesday and Thursday starting on July 5. The two hour sessions start at 6 at the West Windsor High School track. Registration for the program will be held Saturday from 10 to 12 in front of the High School.

Coach Tom Ritter of the High School track team will run the program, which will include instruction in sprinting, distance running, high jumping, long jumping, shot putting and throwing the discus. The purpose is to give girls and boys a chance to try the various track and field events, test themselves, learn the skills and experience the joy of seeing themselves improve.

The professional and volunteer help last year made this program an excellent opportunity for anyone interested in track and field. Adults who can volunteer help, and children with questions are urged to call Justin Kodner, 799-0944.

CIVIL WAR NEXT: Now thet the Bicentennial is concluded, Americen Revolutionery War buffs cen yield to students of Civil War regimental history. The 15th New Jersey Volunteer Infentry Regiment from Flemington will meke en eppeerence Seturdey at the Princeton Shopping Center to show off its lerge collection of Civil Wer memorebilia.

REGIMENT TO VISIT

With Civil War Items. The 15th New Jersey Volunteer Infantry Regiment will come to the Princeton Shopping Center on North Harrison Street on Saturday from 11 to 4 to display their collection of Civil War itmes.

Believed to be the largest selection of Civil War memorabilia in the state, the collection includes small arms, drums, cartridge boxes, historical documents, flags, tents and perhaps a cannon. The 15th was originally recruited at the Fairgrounds near Flemington in the summer of 1862. Its 925 men came from five rural districts.

The "reactiviated" 15th was formed in 1959 in the same county as its predecessor. Its aim was the commemoration of its Civil War counterpart and the promotion of the study of Civil War arms equipment drills and memorabilia.

PARKING WAIVED

For Pizza Plus. The new pizza shop at 25 Witherspoon Street will be able to serve its customers at tables as well as provide them with pizza to go.

The Borough Zoning Board last Thursday approved the request of Witherspoon Pizza Plus that the requirement of 17 parking places be waived in its case. The eating establishment submitted a survey of existing parking in a 400-feet radius of the store.

Renovation of the shop, which formerly housed a food market, already has begun and now may include tables and chairs.

The Zoning Board denied a request by Dr. Willard Rainey, who had sought permission to restore 34 Bayard Lane to its original three-family state. The property now is a single family dwelling.

Arthur Allen, who had asked for a reduction in side yard requirements so that he could expand a kitchen at 40 Mercer Street, was granted permission.

Next meeting of the board is scheduled for Thursday, July 28, at 8 in Borough Hall.

Dear Friends,

July second is our birthday! After celebrating our anniversary of sixty years of fine photography (fifty years in Princeton and ten years in Hopewell) ORREN JACK TURNER will retire this Fall!

Photography has been good to us, and we take this step with some regrets, as well as anticipation of a new future. We are proud of our fine reputation, the hard work it required to achieve it and keep it, and of our many loyal clients and friends.

If you have been postponing plans for a new Turner portrait, delay no longer!

If you believe you may need prints from our negative files, order them soon!

If you have a wall portrait in our studio gallery, it is yours for ½ price. (This may include the frame if it is framed!)

We cannot hope to say goodbye to all of you, and we may very possibly neglect to tell everybody who cares that we are about to retire. We hope the word will get around, though, and we look forward to your visit.

THREE ARE CHARGED

With Marijuana Possession. Three 18-year old Princeton youths have been charged by Borough police with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana.

The three -- Charles Young of Wilson Road, David Mackie of Bayard Lane and Michael Marcantonio of Valley Road -- were stopped in their car at Wiggins and Madison Friday evening by Ptl. Randy Sutton and Ptl. John Holcombe for a motor vehicle check. They are scheduled to appear in court next Wednesday.

Sunday afternoon while on foot patrol, Ptl. Holcombe observed a pipe being passed among three girls by a male on Nassau Green on the University campus.

As a result of his investigation, juvenile charges against two 15-year old girls and a 16-year old for smoking marijuana are pending. Two are residents of Kendall Park; the other is from Lawrence Township.

Police added that they have also been able to identify the man passing the pipe and charges against him are also pending.

Two Charges. Angelo Cinciripini, 21, of Birch Avenue, an employee of Griggs Amoco Station, Witherspoon and Hulfish, has been charged with larceny following his arrest last week by Det. Timothy Huizing.

An investigation by police allegedly revealed that Cinciripini had taken $90 from a cash register at the station. While being processed at police headquarters, Cinciripini was found to be in possession of under 25 grams of marijuana. He is scheduled to appear in court next Wednesday on the possession and larceny charges.

Warren Landauer, 21, 50 Aiken Avenue, bas been charged with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana and resisting arrest.

Landauer fled wben Ptl. Sutton attempted to serve a motor vehicle warrant on him Sunday evening at 8:30. Ptl. Sutton gave chase and apprebended Landauer at Murray Place and Aiken. He will appear in court August 3.

Bird Photographs on View. The photographic work of Alexander D. DuBois, author of "Glimpses of Bird Life" and "Birds and Their Ways," is on display at Cornell University's Ornithological Laboratory in Ithaca, N.Y., during July. Mr. DuBois, a long-time resident of the Princeton area, is well known for his books and for photographs portraying birds in their natural habitats.

EMBERS BLAMED

As Trash Dumpster Ignites. Hot charcoal embers tossed in with other trash are being blamed by police as the probable cause of a fire in a trash dumpster located in the upper parking lot of the Lawrence Apartment complex on West Drive.

By the time Ptl. Robert Nielsen responded to a 10 o'clock call Friday morning, members of the Princeton Fire Department had extinguished the fire which was confined to the dumpster.

Earlier in the week, Ptl. David Cromwell had responded to a car fire at the intersection of Mercer and Quaker roads. However, the engine fire was out by the time he arrived. Police identified the driver as Mary Smith of Trenton. Her car had to be towed from the scene.

CYCLIST IS ASSAULTED

By Driver on 206. A 16-year old bicyclist from Shrewsbury was assaulted last week by a driver of a car on Route 206.

According to police, the cyclist, Neil Wynberg, shouted an obscenity when a car passed him and blew its horn. The driver, police said, stopped his car, got out and asked Mr. Wynberg what he had said. "Nothing," replied Mr. Wynberg.

Whereupon the driver picked up a rock, closed his fist around it and struck tbe victim in the right eye with his fist. Before he drove off, the driver, Mr. Wynberg reported, warned him not to say anything.

The assailant was described as weighing between 170 and 180 and over six feet tall. Supplied the licence registration of the driver, police were able to obtain the name and address of the suspect but are withholding it because no complaint has been signed by the victim.

IT'S NEW To Us

EXPANSION STORY

By Juttus H. Gross. For years – 18 in fact – Julius H. Gross has been a familiar name around Princeton. Known for his excellent painting and wallpapering services, he actually has a background in textiles starting with training by his father in Switzerland and including work at the New School of Interior Design.

Some time ago, he expanded his business to include a shop-at-home area for selecting papers and fabrics. However, many customers preferred stopping by to see the samples themselves, and since he lived in a residential area, a showroom became necessary.

The result is the handsome new Julius H. Gross Interior Design Showroom on Hulfish Street, offering a complete decorating service. In addition to Mr. Gross there are two other designers, Jim Murdock and Arlene Dittman, who will help you select paint, fahric, papers, carpets, furniture, accessories, or whatever else you might need.

The selection is extremely broad. For instance, there are 200 Trend carpet samples, making it possible to choose not only the right color but also whatever texture you prefer.

And More. We also saw fabric samples, many of which are appropriate for upholstery; designer papers; and a great collection of blinds. There are narrow metal Levolor ones which come in every imaginable color, including metal tones, but yet are a natural white on the outside, as well as vertical blinds that can be ordered in colors or covered with fabric or paper to match anything.

In addition to samples, the showroom has on display many accessories – the kind that so often complete the look of a particular room. Most attractive are the museum reproductions which include a small terra-cotta stone owl, a smiling textured blue-gray hippopotamus and a contemporary grouping of three carved elongated heads on a wooden base, approximately $33 to $53.

Also interesting is the collection of hand-formed plexiglass sculptures which are both contemporary and representational. There is a sailboat, a free-form lotus bowl, steeples in three heights, and useful pieces such as candlesticks or bookends, priced from about $25.

There are Italian ceramics, too, ranging from a small big-eyed parrot to a standing white elephant with a flower basket on his back, from $29.95. Presently the basket is prettily filled with red, yellow and white silk poppies and tulips, $2.25 each.

Plenty of Color. Flowers always enhance a room, and in addition to those of silk, we saw arrangements and plants of dried and natural-looking artificial ones. The choice ranges from a feathery arrangement in white and yellow to a clump of young birch trees or a tall group of split palm fronds.

Particularly fascinating are the large woven wall-hangings designed by Don Friedman. They contain a variety of textures, are natural in color and would be a focal point in any room, priced from about $100.

The showroom also has many lamps -- such as traditional ones with oriental porcelain bases or contemporary ones with a base of lucite squares.

There is, of course, much more, even some furniture, including a few antiques, and what isn't here can probably be found by one of the designers on a trip to New York.

In addition, this is only the first part of Julius H. Gross Interior Design Showroom, for the finishing touches are being made in an adjoining store that will feature paints and more wallpapers. Both are at 4-6 Hulfish Street and the hours are 9 to 5:30 Monday through Saturday.

TREASURE HUNT

With a Happy Ending. Although finding the Witherspoon Art and Book Store takes more than a little perserverance, for anyone with even a smattering of interest in the printed word, the effort is well worthwhile.

Perserverance is necessary because the Witherspoon Art and Book Store is not on Witherspoon Street, and although its address is 12 Nassau Street, it isn't even on Nassau Street. In fact, you enter on Bank Street and from there must descend to the basement where the store is in the old Princeton Bank vault.

The store itself is about 40 years old, and has been at its present location for the past 12. Certainly, collectors have been aware of its existence, but the new owner, Thomas McConahay, feels the store has much to offer the general public, at least those who are book oriented.

He told us that while visibility is one of their problems, another is that many people feel they deal only in rare books. "In fact," he said, "there are very few of those around. We have some, but mostly we have 30,000 or so kind of interesting old books, generally costing less than $5."

From Etiquette to Opera. Certainly, there is something here for everyone. The books are arranged by subject area and there are a few on most anything you can think of from etiquette (surprisingly popular, according to Mr. McConahay) to opera scores.

Most sought after are the nicely illustrated children's books, such as the Schribner's Classics illustrated by N.C. Wyeth or those done by Jessie Wilcox Smith. These are bought mainly by adults for adults, and among those we noticed A.A. Milne's "When We Were Very Young" and "The Golden Cockerel," handsomely illustrated by Edmund Dulac.

There are also many children's books that are just fun to read. Some of these are still in print today, but the older ones often have larger print, better paper and nicer illustrations. These include titles such as "Black Beauty,"

W.B. Howe Answers Charges on Athletic Insurance

To the Editor of Town Topics:

It seems to be common these days to indict individuals or businesses with apparently complete immunity in columns of this kind.

In a recent letter from Michael F. Fuschini III, 69 Birch Avenue, Princeton, New Jersey, to your column on June 15, he made a completely unprepared and incomplete statement regarding the athletic insurance for the Princeton Regional Schools.

Mr. Fuschini in the second paragraph referred to Walter B. Howe, Inc. receivlng a "handsome premium". Mr. Fuschini could not possibly know what the premium was and further, premiums on athletic insurance are hardly "handsome" by anyone's standards.

We did not handle the insurance at all during tbe time of Mr. Fuschini's concern. Typical of the indictment-with-immunity type letter, Mr. Fuschini implied that there was some "mysterious" reason why different carriers had been used. There are numerous conditions which do not permit insurance carriers to continue under certain load conditions. There is nothing mysterious about that process. It is legal, honest and customary.

The facts of the matter are that in the absence of Mr. Fuschini's agent we attempted to assist him. The C.W. Bollinger Company, which was the policy writing company, denied liability to the claim because there was a pre-existing condition involving Mr. Fuschini's son and no insurance company will pick up pre-existing conditions in this type of policy.

With respect to the company that was writing the Insurance when Mr. Fuschini's son was injured, namely the Dominion Life Insurance Company of Canada, it appears that the claim had been submitted after the policy period terminated. Mr. Fuschini sights some local physicians, who are apparently making a judgment that "the athletic insurance is inadequate", which seems like a strange place to go for insurance information since you can rarely find medical information dispensed at an insurance office.

Mr. Fuschini's letter condemned the high cost of the insurance premium but conversely demands increased benefits. This is typical of a situation wbere "trying to be a good fellow" in attempting to assist a person with apparent difficulties results in a public and undeserved slap in the face. I suggest that Mr. Fuschini would better serve himself if be were better prepared before making a public indictment witbout substance.

MAILBOX

Thanks from Mrs. Francis.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Coming to the close of any long relationship is always difficult to handle, and so it is with mixed emotions that I have tendered my resignation to the Princeton Regional School Board of Education.

I have enjoyed serving the District for the past seven years. Many of the experiences I have had were most rewarding to me as part of my personal growth and development. However, I realize that the time has come for me to broaden my horizon in my chosen field. The Superintendency of Ewing Township offers me this opportunity.

Many thanks to the Board of Education, the staff, and the community for making the 1976-1977 school year the best and most rewarding of my numerous educational experiences.

EDITH V. FRANCIS

Editor's Note: Details of Mrs. Francis's new position are in a story on page 3.

Fast Action Commended.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

If only the Federal Government functioned as thoroughly, efficiently, and speedily as tbe Princeton Township Engineering Department!

After the June 20 heavy winds and rain there was tree damage. A passing gardener, Camillo Pirone, observed a dangerous six foot long split in a six-storey high locust tree on Snowden Lane.

He reported this to a neighbor, who called the nearest property-owner. Next the able Engineering Department Secretary set in motion the well-organized crew. The following day with the help of the Shearer Tree men, the workers topped, chopped and cleared away a threat that could have endangered the lives of the countless Princeton citizens who use Snowden Lane.

Thoughts for Bicyclists.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

With the ever-increasing use of bicycles in Princeton, I feel strongly that bicycles should carry license plates. Reasons: Identification so bicyclists can be reported wben breaking the "rules of tbe road," revenue for maintenance of bike paths, possible monies for additional police supervision, and maybe helpful in case of theft.

Applying for a bike license, a person would be given a copy of the rules and regulations which includes citing appropriate penalities for breaking same, and a clear map of bike paths in the wbole of Princeton.

"The Victorious Union" from the Blue and Gray Afloat series (1893), and "Hans Brinker on the Silver Skates."

Another active area is literature, which includes 19th and 20th century British and American authors, with many books priced less than current paperbacks. Also here are first editions and finer printings, the kind collectors are often looking for. For instance, Mr. McConahay has nearly all the first editions of John O'Hara's works.

Endless Variety. We can't mention all the subject areas but a sampling includes photography, radio (helpful in repairing old ones or constructing your own), theatre, Princeton and New Jersey materials, military histories, ships and sailing, archaeology, fish, mysteries, sociology, foreign languages, travel guides and much much more.

This is definitely a place for browsing because things change all the time. Mr. McConahay buys 200 to 1000 books a week from private libraries and estates, and the new arrivals are shelved separately for the first 10 to 15 days. This is so the regular customers can quickly see what interests them, and it is the best way for collectors to find what they want.

The Book Store's most recent acquisition is a private library with many art reference books, published from 1920 to 1950. The full range of art is covered, including Byzantine, Albert Durer and contemporary artists.

If you have a particular area of interest, Mr. McConahay suggests letting them know and they'll send a card when something arrives. Many items never reach the shelves, such as one new arrival the other day, the first edition of Joseph Conrad's "The Secret Agent," 1923.

An Added Bonus. Another new arrival is W. Somerset Maugham's "The Moon and Sixpence." "This is not a great book," said Mr. McConahay. "It is not even a first edition, but glued in the front is a three-page hand-written letter by Maugham to his American agent and this is about a $50 letter."

There are a few unusual pieces here, too, such as a 1650 book of Caesar's Commentaries in Latin published in Amsterdam by Elzevir with engraved plates and vellum binding, $65.

Mr. McConahay also has two excellent letters by Charles Lindbergh to his collaborator on the book, "The Spirit of St. Louis," which clarify some details of his solo flight. These are expensive, $1500 for the pair, but they are important.

The Witherspoon Art and Book Store at 12 Nassau Street (remember to enter from Bank Street) is open Monday through Saturday from 10 until 5:30.

Every day I drive my car with fear of hitting a bicyclist because of his or her lack of proper signaling. Twice this year cyclists have gone through the red light on Nassau at University Place just as I started to move on the green light. Many times cyclists have crossed my "bow" or turned left without signaling in the Borough and Township, and I nearly ran down a cyclist at dusk carrying no reflectors.

May I suggest that all the police be acquainted with the location of bike paths. I pray that more tragedies will not occur before strict rules and regulations are implemented.

Democracy Doubted.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Since the 20th century has had inadequate impact on our village thus far, can we catch up to the 20th before the 21st arrives? After all, we have only 23 years in which to make it.

Princeton Township residents who are free to drive right and left, or all around the Johnson estate, want to deny the owners the right to drive up and down into it.

Meanwhile, our Governor comes and goes often twice daily, by helicopter -- as governors have done daily for years -- right in Princeton Township. Danger or decibels have proved no problem.

Then we have fine people -- no question about fine people as Johnson, or university, neighbors -- with minimal scientific training, but who would vote to bar a world-famous university from scientific endeavors (the plus and minus factors, and controls, which the university itself volunteered from the first).

The matter of we "civilians" voting on DNA research can be put this way, if I may revert to my school teaching experiences: A first grade had a project involving a rabbit. Since the class did not know whether it was a boy or girl rabbit, they decided the matter democratically—they voted on it.

OBITUARIES

Prof. Marston Morse, 85, of 40 Battle Road, a member of the Institute for Advanced Study, died June 22 at his home.

Prof. Morse was universally regarded as one of the world's greatest mathematicians. His interests in mathematics were broad and spread over analysis, topology, calculus of variations, differential geometry and dynamics. Much of his work centered around analysis in the large, that is a combination of analysis and geometry.

In addition to his eminence in mathematics he was a statesman of science and was influential in shaping its development. He and Father Theodore M. Hesburgh, President of Notre Dame University, represented the Vatican at the Atoms for Peace Conference at the United Nations in 1952.

Born in Waterville, Me., he received an A.B. from Colby College in 1914 and a Ph.D. from Harvard in 1917. His career from 1919 to 1935 centered at Harvard but he was at Cornell from 1920 to 1925, and at Brown University, 1925-26. In 1935 he became a professor at the newly founded Institute for Advanced study, one of the great orignal faculty in mathematics which included Alexander, Einstein, von Neumann, Veblen and Weyl. He was a professor there until his death, having become emeritus in 1962.

Prof. Morse's academic career was interrupted by the two world wars. In the first he served with distinction in the American Expeditionary Force and received the Croix de Guerre with silver star for bravery under fire. In World War II he made major contributions in applied mathematics in the Office of the Chief of Ordnance and received the Ordnance Department Meritorious Service Award from the President of the United States in 1944, and the Army-Navy Certificate of Merit in 1948.

His mathematical achievements were widely recognized. He received 20 honorary doctorate degrees from universities around the world and was elected to the National Academy of Sciences in 1932, to the American Philosophical Society in 1936, and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. He was President of the American Mathematical Society from 1940-42.

Prof. Morse was appointed by the President of the United States to the first National Science Foundation Board, 1950-54, and became a "Chevalier" in the French National Order of Legion of Honor in 1952. He was an associate member of the French Academy of Sciences, and a corresponding member of the Italian National Academy Lincei. He received the National Medal of Science in 1964, presented at the White House in 1965 by President Johnson.

He was a man of wide cultural interests with a lifelong devotion to the piano and an interest in sports, having been a captain of the Colby tennis team. He was influential with young people and associated with them freely from the beginning of his career to the very last day of his life. He enjoyed foreign contacts and took a special interest in France. His immense influence was world wide among people of all ages and he was regarded everywhere with affection and respect.

He was a founder of the Friends of the Princeton Public Library and one of the charter trustees of the Princeton Chapter of Recording for the Blind. He also was a trustee of Princeton Country Day School and a member of the first advisory board of Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart.

Prof. Morse was married in 1940 to Louise Jeffreys, who survives him. He had seven children. Dr. Dryden P. Morse of Moorestown, and the late Meroe Morse by a previous marriage; Mrs. Thomas Cone of Andover, Mass. William M. Morse of New Haven, Conn.; Mrs. Daniel Reardon of East Greenwich; Peter Morse of Salt Lake City, Utah; Louise Morse of Princeton; and 11 grandchildren.

The Turner Style

Orren Jack Turner Sr., who died in 1969, set standards for his photography work that would make amateur picture takers see double. In taking a bridal portrait, for example, he viewed the bride as a pyramid, from the crown to the train, which always was shown in the photograph.

He refused to take photographs in the church. "The sanctity of the marriage sacrament should never be polluted for commercial reasons," he once was quoted as saying.

Those attempting to make him compromise his standards did so at their own risk. On one occasion, it is said, a New York newspaper offered him $500 to reproduce a portrait of an heiress who had become involved in a seamy story. Mr. Turner refused.

He then discovered a photographer from the paper in his studio, trying to shoot a copy of the original. The photographer was thrown out; the picture was locked up.

The studio's founder continued to light his subjects with natural sky lighting long after it was abandoned by other photographers. He viewed himself as an artist, and spoke of his work in terminology similar to that used in Professor E. Baldwin Smith's art lectures, which Mr. Turner audited in 1927.

Turner to Close Photographic Studio, Ending Six Decades of Picture-Taking in Princeton

Orren Jack Turner, a name that the Princeton area and a good part of the world beyond has come to associate with fine portrait photography done in traditional style, is closing his studio and retiring from the business this September, after more than 60 years in operation.

"I have always liked what I do and I have always been pretty good at what I do, if I may say so," explains Mr. Turner, whose father, Orren Jack Turner Sr. started the business and operated it for years in the Nassau Street building now occupied by Landau's. Jack Jr. moved the business to Hopewell in 1967. "But now the time has come to do different things. If nothing else I'll put my feet up, drink some bourbon and give myself six months or so to catch up with the world."

Mr. Turner, who is 58, and his wife, the former Marianlouise Thomson, hope to relocate in the Carolinas, the home of his father before he came north to begin the photography business. Their daughter, Blair, has not decided whether she will remain in Princeton or move with her parents. Mr. Turner's partner, Jacob B. Lutz, will remain in town.

"I've taught photography at the Winona School of Professional Photography in Indiana and I'll teach there this summer again and maybe in the years beyond that," Mr. Turner says. "I've also taught seminars on studies of the nude and studies of the dance and I might wallpaper the universities in the south hoping to find someone who would want me to teach that."

The Turner's son, Orren Jack Turner III, also studied photography and "showed a good deal of talent for the profession," according to his father. "I had hopes that he'd take over the business but I didn't want to push." Orren III decided otherwise and now lives and works as an auto mechanic in Pennsylvania.

Distinctive Touch. "When my father first started the business the emphasis was -- and to some extent this still is true -- to do a lot of photographs as fast as possible and make a lot of money. We always had the idea that if we kept on learning more about the profession, we would develop our skills so that we could do something distinctive," Mr. Turner says.

"Even today it is not unusual for people to pass 15 other photographers to come to our studio. Millicent Fenwick came down here from Bernardsville to have her campaign photograph done. I'm sure there are good photographers in Bernardsville but she was kind enough to think that we could say something about her that she felt needed to be said."

For many years the Turner studio was the official photographer for Princeton University and its work graced the pages of the Bric-a-Brac, the Nassau Herald, and the faculty register.

Amelia Earhart, Warren G. Harding, and various members of European royalty sat in their proper poses before the Orren Jack Turner camera. Albert Einstein sat still long enough for photographs on three occasions: In 1922, when he posed in batwing collar and morning coat; in 1937 when he was dressed in similar attire but his hair was a wild shock of white; and in 1947, when he retired from the Institute for Advanced Study.

A Dignified Einstein. "At that time he had given up wearing a shirt and tie," recalls Mr. Turner. "He sat with his coat buttoned over his neck. He probably just had an undershirt on. But that photograph still has a great deal of dignity."

Mr. Turner and his father before him made their living in a field of photography that has been dismissed by much of the profession. "Portraiture has been called a dying art for 30 years now, but it's not dead yet," says Mr. Turner.

Instant cameras, 35 mm cameras, and the popularity of color photography all have been viewed as the ultimate competitive blow to the traditional portrait.

But Mr. Turner has carried on in the classic style. "We still do mostly black and white work. Color is only 10 to 15 percent of our business. I suppose I could use a 35 mm camera if my eyes held out, but my favorite camera is the Eastman 8 by 10 view camera. Who today would ever walk around with an 8 by 10 camera in their case?"

Orren Jack Turner would. "I guess I'm just an eccentric, always flying in the face of modern photography" he says.

The Consumer Research Bureau has presented the 1977 excellence award for customer relations to the May Real Estate Agency of Blawenburg for its efforts in providing the highest levels of consumer satisfaction. Laurence May is the realtor and owner.

The Bureau was organized in 1964 to perform a service to the house buying public. Each year thousands of survey questionnaires are mailed to recent home purchasers asking for an evaluation of the service they received from real estate companies and their agencies. The May Agency was highly rated by its clients and thus received the award.

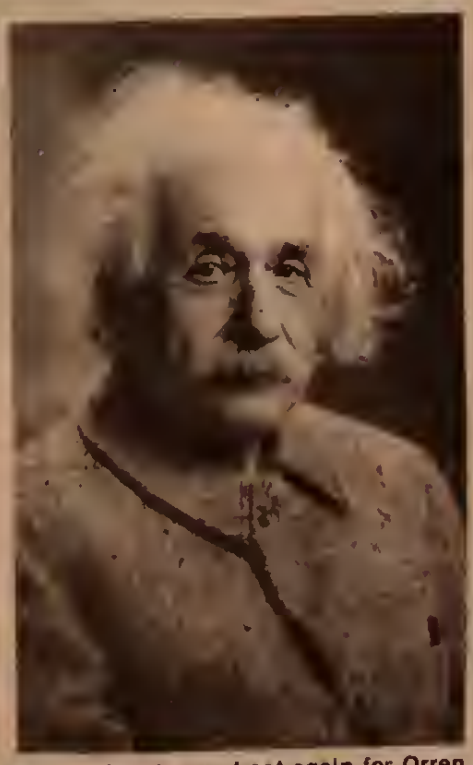
EINSTEIN THROUGH THE YEARS – AND THE ORREN JACK TURNER LENS



The founder of the Turner studio took formal portraits of Albert Einstein on three occasions. At the left is Einstein in 1922, when he appeared in Princeton to lecture on what was then the virtually unheard of Theory of Relativity. By 1937, after fleeing Nazi Germeny, Einstein had settled in Princeton and set again for Orren Jack Turner. The final portrait was taken on the occasion of Einstein's retirement from the Institute for Advanced Study in 1947. The coat is buttoned because Einstein wore no shirt underneath.

DRAKES CORNER ROAD

We offer Princeton's finest residential property. Built in the early thirties, this is an exquisitely crafted American house with unusual structural strength and authentic architectural detail. Selected Pennsylvania Stone, concrete and stone foundations, and reinforced concrete subfloors provide the strength. Antique glazing, panelling, fireplace mantles, plank flooring, hardware and other architectural antiquities too numerous to mention were painstakingly collected and integrated to create an interior of extraordinary charm, taste and value. The main house is divided into three charming apartments plus the center or owner's section. The latter includes on first floor a front to back center hall, a study with corner fireplace and bookshelves; a main living room with fine panelling, beams and fireplace; spacious dining room with fireplace, tile hearth, and lovely antique mantle and corner cupboard; informal dining room with polished brick floors, special shelving and walk-in fireplace; mudroom; large kitchen and pantry area with adjoining maids quarters. On the second floor a master suite with huge dressing room and bedroom bath with fireplace; a private stairway to the living room below, a master bath, plus four other bedrooms and three baths. Huge floored attic over the entire house, full basement with finished gameroom. Oil fired hot water heat with individual room thermostats. To the North of the driveway is a complex of outbuildings including a guest or caretaker's cottage, a four car garage, and stable or machinery building. The grounds, twenty four acres in all, include a tennis court and spring fed swimming pool, sweeping lawns, huge shade trees, gardens and protective forest. Price and further details upon request!

Second Pictorial History of Princeton Looks at Town's Past From Part Washington Played Here to Post-World War II Years

Summertime, and the living was easy--definitely easy, at least in one part of 19th century Princeton recalled in the Historical Society's handsomely produced new journal, "Princeton History, Number Two."

"My father and his friends entertained a good deal," writes Eleanor Marquand Delanoy of her father, Professor Allan Marquand, and the house in which he and his family lived for many years, Guernsey Hall.

"They gave houseparties--well chaperoned--which the ladies who told me about them in their later years considered very gay, as they slid down the long staircase on tin trays and sat on branches of trees in such a way as to reveal their ankles! There were also formal occasions such as the lunch-party my father gave to welcome ex-President and Mrs. Cleveland when they settled in Princeton."

The book in which Mrs. Delanoy's reminiscences appear is a testament to bygone days, of course, demonstrated by the fact that her old family home is now a five-unit condominium at the corner of Mercer Street and Lover's Lane.

But chapters in "Princeton History" have been written mainly by scholars and authors close to the Princeton scene and they bring to life parts of the Princeton past that only first-hand observers would have known.

T.S. Eliot in Langrock's. In her chapter on "Mr. Elliot's Stay in Princeton," Margaret M. Keenan writes of the poet's visits to Princeton in 1947 and 1948. During one stay with Professor Willard Thorp, the poet "mentioned that he needed a complete new outfit of clothes because he was looking a little threadbare.

He was asked if he meant by a complete outfit, from underwear to overcoat, and he said that was exactly what he meant. He seemed a bit concerned that he might not be able to get the kind of underwear he wanted, and when he was questioned about what he had in mind, he asked for a sheet of paper so that he could draw it.

"Willard Thorp described the drawing as that of a man with bulging muscles wearing BVD's and an undershirt with elbow length sleeves. He agreed with Eliot that indeed it might be difficult, but that if anyone could find them it would be Harry Decker at Langrock's. Unfortunately, Eliot then crumpled the drawing and threw it into the fire. However, it was the beginning of a friendly business arrangement with Harry Decker."

This volume of "Princeton History" is a sequel to the one published in 1971 by the Historical Society. That one, described by the Society as "a model for publications devoted to local and regional studies," was edited by Alfred L. Bush, with Lucius Wilmerding Jr., Lewis B. Cuyler, Bruce H. French, Constance M. Greiff and Wheaton J. Lane serving on the editorial board.

The same group has overseen production of Number Two, which includes other chapters on "The Great Princeton Mail Robbery," by Wilmerding; "The Princeton Group," by Ernest Gordon; "Alexander Hall at the Seminary," by Robert S. Beaman; and "General Washington's Highway," by Elizabeth G.C. Menzies.

Princeton Today. The 102-page volume also brushes by some aspects of modern Princeton, with book reviews on "The Affluent Suburb: Princeton;" Constance Greiff's "Lost America;" and several community guidebooks.

In bis review of the guidebooks, William Morgan adds some information the authors omitted. Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor who produced the monkeys, gargoyles, and tigers of Seventy-Nine Arch on the University campus, also created the monumental portraits of Mount Rushmore.

For those interested in bicycling or driving through the landmarks of Princeton's

GAY NINETIES AT GUERNSEY HALL: The ladies often brought along their peresols for their summer promenedes through the grounds of Professor Allen Merquend's Guernsey Hell. This picture, taken some time before 1896, when Professor Merquend wes merried, eppeers in the second volume of the Historicei Society's "Princeton History." The history of the 30-ecre estete, located et whet is now Mercer Street end Lover's Lene, is recounted by Eleenor Merquand Delenoy, the professor's deughter. The building now conteins five condominium units, designed by erchitect Wiillem Short and soid with covenants guerding the exterior end importent interior erchitecturel feetures. "Cendide" opens Summer intime's 10th seeson Thursday at 8:30 in Murrey Theeter on the Princeton University campus.

News Of The THEATRES

SUMMER INTIME READY

"Candida" Opens Thursday. Summer Intime's drama series celebrates its 70th anniversary season this Thursday with tbe opening of George Bernard Shaw's "Candida." This season promises to be a best-selling season according to Geoffrey Rich, producer of SI. "Subscription sales are up by 30 percent from last year. We're expecting this to be our biggest season ever."

Tickets are still available at the air-conditioned Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus.

The company is putting the final touches on its production of "Candida," a play which has been called both romantic and anti-romantic. It is an insightful exploration of a love triangle which raises questions of conflicting social attitutdes ranging from the place of God in the bedroom to the place of the typist in a barroom. Though written in 1898, "Candida" has more to say on behalf of women's rights than Hedda Gabler or Bella Abzug.

Shaw's comedy is getting added inspiration from Kathy Mendeloff, the only woman chosen to direct at SI this summer. Ms. Mendeloff will be remembered by the Princeton community for her award-winning and record-breaking production of "Lysistrata" and "Tbe Caucasian Chalk Circle."

As an undergraduate at Princeton, she was the recipient of the Frances LeMoyne Page award for outstanding contribution to Princeton theatre. Sbe has since been studying directing at the Yale School of Drama, where she has staged and acted in the works of Ibsen, Shakespeare, and new American playwrights.

Stewart. Nelson Return. Katherine Stewart, as Candida, and Mark Nelson, as the amorous poet Marchbanks, return to work with Ms. Mendeloff after two years, having collaborated with her on "The Caucasian Chalk Circle." Ms. Stewart played Caliban in "The Tempest," Olive in "Voice of the Turtle," and Juno in "Juno and the Paycock." Mr. Nelson's career has included acting and directing and was this year's recipient of the Frances LeMoyne Page award at Princeton.

Making their debuts at SI are New York actors Keith Moore and Paul Lawrence. They play Candida's husband and father respectively. Mr. Moore is a graduate of the Circle In-The-Square theatre school. He turned down an offer to act with the famed Williamstown Theatre Company to work with Summer Intime. Mr. Lawrence, a featured Equity actor, has appeared with the Yale Repertory. Theatre and in dinner theatres in the Philadelphia-New York area.

Nancy Bleemer will appear as the misproportioned, misplaced Miss Proserpine. She played the leading role in the Triangle Show, "Kafka Tea or Me." Rounding out the cast is Geoff Rich, playing the role of Lexy Mill.

"Candida" opens Thursday at 8:30 and plays July 1-3, 7-10 at 8:30, 7:30 Sundays. In addition, a Saturday matinee will be held July 9 at 2:30. Tickets range from $3.50 to $5. Subscriptions are still available. For reservations or information, write to SI, Murray Theatre, Princeton, 08540, or call the SI box office: 452-8181.

For Movie Lovers: Summer Intime is also presenting a film series, including a screening of "Pat and Mike," starring Spencer Tracy and Katherine Hepburn, on Wednesday at 8 in McCormack Hall on the Princeton campus.

Next week, on the Fourth of July and on Tuesday, the Fifth, Cinema Intime will present "Bells Are Ringing" with Judy Holliday. On July 6 "Twentieth Century," Howard Hawkes' comedy classic starring John Barrymore, will be presented.

All movies are shown at 8 in the air-conditioned McCormack Hall. Tickets are priced at $1.50, which makes Cinema Intime, its supporters are quick to point out, the lowest priced movie house in town. The number for movie information is also 452-8181.

PLAYERS PICK 51

For Cast of "Oliver." The Princeton Community Players have selected a cast of 51 for their production of "Oliver," the musical by Lionel Bart, which will be staged at the Washington's Crossing open-air theatre from August 18 to 27. This will be the Players' first appearance at Washington's Crossing since 1970.

The play will be directed by Roo Brown, with Richard Loatman as musical director and Sheila Clark choreographing. The first rehearsal for the entire cast is scheduled for next Tuesday, July 5, at 7:30 at the Players Theatre, 171 Broadmead.

Chosen for leading parts are Alan Schwartz as Oliver, Jack Rahilly as Fagin, Bill Agress as Sikes, Susan Tapper as Nancy, Steve Cragg as the Dodger, Richard Coburn as Mr. Bumble, Lynda Lee Page as Mrs. Corney, Ibby Carothers as Charlotte, Sue Udy as Bet, Jerry Longe as Sowerberry, Pat Boardman as Mrs. Sowerberry, Jack Gwin as Noah.

MUSICAL TO OPEN

Mack-the-Knife Is Back. "Mack-the-knife" comes to the stage of Trenton's Artists Showcase Theatre as Shakespeare '70 presents "The Threepenny Opera," a musical classic by Bertolt Brecht with music by Kurt Weill. Residents of Princeton and Pennington are among the cast.

"The Threepenny Opera" is the first presentation of "The Summer of '77," the theatre festival jointly sponsored by Artists Showcase and Shakespeare '70 Inc. under a grant from The Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission. The festival will include "The Summoning of Everyman" and the Shakespeare comedy, "Much Ado About Nothing."

The production stars Andrew Hornyak of Hamilton as Mack-the-Knife. He was seen last summer in the title role in "The Merchant of Venice." Veteran actor Marvin W. Stafford is seen as Mr. Peachum and Lila Howley as Mrs. Peachum.

Priscilla Orr of Pennington plays Polly Peachum and Wendy Cohen of Princeton appears as Lucy Brown. Princeton folk singer Lee Dratfield is featured as Jenny. Catherine Wilson of Princeton appears as one of the beggers. "The Threepenny Opera" opens Friday evening and performances follow on July 2, 8, 9, 10, 15 and 16. Friday and Saturday performances are at 8:30 and Sunday at 7:30. The theatre is at 1150 Indiana Avenue in Trenton, just off the Brunswick Avenue Circle at Route 1. All seats are $3.95 and may be reserved by calling 392-2433.

"L'IL ABNER"

At Open Air Theatre. Al Capp, of Dogpatch, U.S.A., will be on stage at the Open Air Theatre, Washington Crossing the week-end of June 30-July 3, and July 7-9 in a Pennington Players production.

Curtain-time is 8:30, and if it rains, the substitute date will be July 10.

"L'il Abner" has that Sadie Hawkins Day ballet, when the young girls have to catch a bridegroom. And there's the society dance in General Bullmoose's mansion, and a rousing homage to Jubilation T. Cornpone. Johnny Mercer and Geoe dePaul did lyrics and music.

Bob Stives will play the leading role, with Bobbi Mendel as his Daisy Mae. Betty Yureklier will be Mammy Yokum and Kevin, Pappy Yokum. Marryin' Sam is Pat Hughes; Earthquake McGoon is Jeff Glazer (who, with Judy Glazer, is also the producer) and Bill Agress, Mayor Dawgmeat.

Other residents of Dogpatch are Senator Jack S. Phogbound (Sidney Procelain), Dr. Rasmussen T. Pinsdale (Herb Kirchhoff), Available Jones (Jerry Longe), General Bullmoose (Ed Stout), Appassionata von Climax (Gilda Morigi) and Evil Eye Fleagle (John Sunkisis).

Others in the cast are Carol Bellis, Karen Carter, Dorena D'Ippolito, Doug Elder, Kathleen Langan, Ray Pental, Sara Punnett and Laura White.

Joan Morton Lucas is director and choreographer and Richard Loatman is in charge of vocal direction. Calvin McClinton will conduct the orchestra. Others in the production staff are Joan Bellis, costumes; Barrie Lauderdale and Nick Gardner, sets and Sandy Raymond and Donna Lee, props.

SPACE AVAILABLE

In Theatre Workshops. During the week of July 11-15, Princeton Street Theatre will hold an improvisation workshop with Julie Denny.

Ms. Denny has appeared in many films and several off-Broadway shows and believes that one of the greatest problems confronting the actor is how to become a believable character while speaking someone else's lines. The workshop will be held from 10 to 12 and will help the participants become more comfortable with themselves on stage and therefore with the characters they play.

The following week, July 18-22, will be the voice workshop with Bruce Turner. There are only a few spaces left in these workshops, and those interested are urged to register promptly.

Street Theatre needs musicians of all kinds, especially guitarists, to play for the productions of "Harvey" and "The Further Adventures of Winnie the Pooh." A truck is also needed to pull the mobile stage, and anyone who has a truck or a jeep and could use a little extra cash should call Debbie Bellow, producing director, at 924-7452. Ms. Bellow will also take workshop registrations.

CABARET TO MARK 4th

With Star-Spangled Show. The Inn Cabaret, the weekly musical and comedy revue which performs Fridays at 8:30 and 10:30 in the Prince William Room of the Nassau Inn, is in rehearsal for its 'Almost-But-Not-Quite-July-4th' show this Friday.

In 1975 (the first year the Cabaret performed at the Inn) the show actually fell on July 4th, and since then the show has traditionally been one of the wilder productions of the season, with regular cabaret material alternating with patriotic (and pseudo-patriotic) sketches and songs. This year will be no exception, and will once again feature a rousing grand finale with Ann Poole making a guest appearance as Kate Smith singing 'God Bless America.'

Among the performers scheduled to appear in the show are Suzie Bertin, Roo Brown, Liz Fillo, Meg Guilfoy, Harding Jones, Pierce Lonergan, Milton Lyon, and Rose Walden, who will be making her first appearance with the Cabaret. Peter Wright will be at the piano, with Steve Fillo on bass, and director Dan Berkowitz will act as master of ceremonies.

Numbers currently being worked up for the show include a segment of 'Great Works of Literature Set to Music' which pays tribute to the Romantic poets in a

POPS AND BANGS

Sunday's Concert a First. As if to make amends for the absence of fireworks from Palmer Stadium on July 4, the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra will present Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture" complete with cannon volleys and rocket flares as the explosive finale of its Sunday evening outdoor Pops Concert to be held on the Princeton University athletic east of Palmer Stadium and Jadwin Gym.

The Pops extravaganza will be a first for Central New Jersey. The program will also include Dvorak's "Three Slavonic Dances," Mascagni's "Intermezzo" from "Cavalleria Rusticana," Smetana's "The Moldau," J. Strauss' "Blue Danube Waltz," the medley from "Fiddler on the Roof" by Bock and Gould's "American Salute."

Conducting the 80-member orchestra will be Thomas Michalak, the newly appointed music director, who most recently worked as the assistant to Andre Previn with the Pittsburgh Symphony. The cannon volleys and rocket flares concluding the concert will be staged by the specialists who direct spectaculars at the Jones Beach Marine Theater on Long Island.

The music will begin at 7 and run for about 90 minutes. The fields will be ready at 5:30 for a bring-your-own picnic and music-lovers are encouraged to bring the whole family (all ages, but no dogs) with a blanket and well-stocked basket. Soda will be on sale.

Tickets may be purchased at all branches of the First National Bank of Princeton; the Nassau Street and Princeton Shopping Center branches of the Princeton Bank & Trust Company; or at the YWCA, Paul Robeson Place. Tickets may also be purchased at the concert site beginning at 5:30. Prices are $4 for adults, $2 for students and seniors, and $1 for those under 18.

Proceeds will support three area youth services -- the Princeton Chapter of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra League, which sponsors concerts in schools; the Bates Scholarship Fund, supporting summer day camp programs sponsored by the YWCA; and the Princeton Youth Fund, which provides financial aid to a variety of area youth organizations, including Career Development Awards, Corner House, the Council of Community Serivces, Creative Theatre, Summer sounds, Street Theatre, and the Education Center at Blairstown. This performance, part of Festival '77, sponsored by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, is being produced in association with the Arts Council.

Plenty of parking will be available at the Palmer Stadium and Jadwin Gym lots. In the event of rain, the concert will be played in Jadwin beginning at 7.

MUSIC FOR YOUNGEST

At Nassau Nursery School. Teachers at the Nassau Co-op Nursery School on Walnut Lane love msuic, and they have set up a music program that has become a hit with the youngsters.

Trudy Venner, who has been with the school for 12 years, plays the piano and guitar, while Vicky Pehta, who has taught at Nassau Co-op for 16 years, transmits her love for the violin to her four-year-old class. It is unusual for a nursery school to plan a music session every day. It's even more unusual to see children holding quarter-size violins and looking for all the world like budding Heifetzes.

FEELING THE MUSIC: Dene Bruce, e beneficiery of the music progrem et Nasseu Cooperetive Nursery School, is ebsorbed in drewing e bow ecross a querter-sized violin. Story, this pege.

Mrs. Pehta, who studied music education at the Eastman School of Music and who is active in many local orchestras, believes that children should feel music with their whole body.

"They should have an opportunity to hold and play an instrument so they can experience sound," she says. "It's very important for children to feel the music and to move their bodies to the rhythm. They should experience the vibrations of the violin, learn what creates sound, touch the wood, and see the strings vibrating."

It has become a pleasure for the teachers at Nassau Co-op to hear, as they sometimes do, a child saying, "I want to play the violin when I grow up."

"PIRATES" PLANNED

By Opera Group. The Princeton Opera Association will present Gilbert and Sullivan's musical comedy masterpiece, "The Pirates of Penzance," on July 14, 15, 16, 21, 22 and 23, at the Open Air Theatre, Washington Crossing State Park.

Under the direction of Dan Berkowitz, the production stars Mary Kemp and Carole Davis sharing the role of Mable, Henry Baird as Frederick, Warren Raymond as Major-General Stanley, Stephen Owen as The Pirate King, John Kemp as Samuel, Al Tucher as the Sergeant of Police, Denise Seutter as Edith, Jan Maxwell as Kate, Cornelia Powers as Isabel, and Virginia Cole and Nancy Jackson sharing the role of Ruth.

The performances are produced for the Princeton Opera Association by Clarence Chang, with Igor Chichagov as musical director, Kathleen Rolleri as production manager, Sally Wilkinson as stage manager, and Shirley Arnold in charge of properties.

DOUBLE FEATURE SET

By Campus FIlm Group. The second week of Summer Cinema '77 at Kresge Auditorium on the Princeton campus will feature two films dealing with different aspects of the early American West: Robert Altman's "McCabe and Mrs. Miller," and Arthur Penn's "Little Big Man." The double-feature presentation will be shown beginning at 7:30 on Thursday and Sunday and beginning at 8 on Friday and Saturday.

"McCabe and Mrs. Miller" has become the favorite cult film of Robert Altman fans. Formally a comedy-western, it is Altman's romantic version of frontier society, set in the Northwest mining town of Presbyterian Church in 1902. McCabe (Warren Beatty) is a smalltime gambler, and Mrs. Miller (Julie Christie) an English madam. The two become partners in a brothel whose refinements bring the town prosperity but themselves trouble in the form of outside interests who want to buy them out.

"Little Big Man" covers events from before the Civil War up to and including Custer's Last Stand in 1876. Dustin Hoffman plays Jack Crabb, at the age of 121 and last living white survivor of the Little Big Horn, who functions as a kind of "everyman" as well as director Penn's vehicle for the larger questions he explores in his film, such as the relationship of the white man to the Indian. "Little Big Man" was hailed by critics.

Subscriptions to Summer Cinema '77 are available for $15. Call 921-8700 for further information.

uniquely American way; an original number by Milton Lyon featuring Lyon, Dan Berkowitz, and Liz Fillo as Hester Prynne in a musical takeoff of "The Scarlet Letter"; and a reprise of 'Nobody's Perfect' from "I Do! I Do!" featuring Lyon and Roo Brown as the harried married couple who can't seem to get off each other's nerves.

All tickets are $4 and reservations may be made by phoning 924-3727 from Monday through Friday. Bar service is available throughout the show.

IN THE GARDENS OF GUERNSEY: The Merquand estate was built about 1852 for Judge Richard Stockton Field, who planted many rare trees on the grounds and who designed a formal garden with a mirrored ball on a pedestal in the middle of what is now the baseball field at Merquand Park. When the professor bought it in 1887 he named the estate after the island of Guernsey, the birthplace of his great-grandfather. Professor Marquand maintained the house with several friends on the Princeton faculty until he was married in 1896. (Historical Society of Princeton) guidebook of its own. Elizabeth Menzies writes of the movements of the British and American troops up and down the roads now designated Routes 27 and 206 between New Brunswick and Trenton. The scene at Princeton following the battle there was far different from anything the town has resembled ever since.

Miss Menzies quotes from the diary of Dr. Benjamin Rush, who treated the mortally wounded General Hugh Mercer at the Thomas Clarke house: "Princeton is indeed a deserted village. You would think it had been desolated with the plague and an earthquake...the college and church are heaps of ruins, all the inhabitants have been plundered."

Titian and Tiffany. Yet, within 100 years or so, Princeton had risen to the impressive heights of Professor Marquand's Guernsey Hall.

As his daughter writes in "Princeton History, Number Two," the professor "originally hung in the dining room the Bosch painting of Christ before Pilate now in the University Art Museum, but my mother said she could not eat with anything so gruesome before her, so the room was panelled with 15th century painted and tooled leather, some of which, with a gold ground, was reputed to have come from Titian's house...."

"The 'morning room' contained a set of very uncomfortable teak chairs carved in a Japanese design which had been made for the Japanese room in my grandfather Marquand's house in New York. There was also some Tiffany glass."

The book costs $6 and is available at the Bainbridge House at 158 Nassau Street or at the University Store. For as long as copies of the first volume last, the two books may be ordered together for $7.50.

A LOOK AT MARS

At State Museum. When landers from the Viking space probes touched down on Mars last summer to conduct their search for life, they culminated almost 100 years of scientific speculation that began in the 1880s when Italian astronomer Giovanni Schiaparelli first described the Red Planet's "canals."

Early Theories about the planet and the findings from the Viking probes are both discussed in detail in "Mars Since Viking," an informative public program being presented in the New Jersey State Museum Planetarium from July 2 through September 5. Showings are scheduled at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. Monday through Friday and at 2 and 4 weekends.

At 3 on Saturdays and Sundays during July and August, the Planetarium will present "New Jersey's Summer Sky," a simulated look at the planets, constellations and other celestial attractions visible on a clear evening. This program is particularly suitable for first-time Planetarium visitors.

There is no charge for admission to the Planetarium. Free tickets are distributed first-come, first-served, beginning 30 minutes before each show.

Children under 7 are not admitted to regular Planetarium lectures, but "Tots and Stars," an elementary program designed to introduce younger people to the wonders of astronomy, will be presented at 10 each Friday from July 8 through September 2. Youngsters are also welcome at the "Sun-watching" program -- a demonstration of how to observe the sun safely -- outside the Planetarium at 2 (weather permitting) Monday through Friday from July 5 through September 2.

The State Museum, a division of the New Jersey Department of Education, is open from 9 to 4:45 Monday through Friday and from 1 to 5 weekends. There is no charge for admission.

SURVIVAL PROGRAM SET

At Girl Scout Camp. Rock climbing and rappelling, cave exploration, backpacking, orienteering, and canoeing are possibilities this summer for girls entering grades 8 through 12. A program called "Survival" is offered from August 7 to 19 by the Delaware-Raritan Girl Scout Council, with base camp located at the new Oak Spring Center in Franklin Township near East Millstone.

Members of the Northern New Jersey Grotto Chapter of the National Speleological Society will supervise the caving expeditions in Pennsylvania. A trained rock climber will teach basic climbing and descending techniques in the Watchung area. Girls who are ready and interested will then undertake more advanced climbing in the New Palz area of New York State.

Backpacking and orienteering on the Appalachian trail in New Jersey and Pennsylvania will be under the direction of the trained Oak Spring staff. Canoeing trips in New Jersey will also be directed by the staff. While at Oak Spring Center, campers will plan and prepare for their outings and enjoy primitive camping activities on 120 acres of wooded lands, rolling hills, cultivated fields, brooks and wetlands.

Frontage on the Delaware and Raritan Canal provides a setting for boating, canoeing, and nature study. A swimming pool for instructional and free swims, a crafts barn and other structures complement tent sites, hiking trails, and nature study areas.

The fee for "Survival" is $130. Registration forms may be obtained by writing to the Delaware-Raritan Girl Scout Council at the Service Center, 715 King George's Post Road, Edison, or by calling (201) 738-8200 weekdays from 9 to 5.

Mrs. Hill was a member of the Metropolitan Opera Ballet School as a child and appeared in several operas. Later she became an actress in radio and summer stock and still later on artist who had her paintings exhibited in and around New York City. However, writing is her greatest love and since selling her first story to the old Liberty magazine at age 13 has contributed many adult stories and articles in national magazine's such as The New Yorker and Harper's Bazaar.

"Ever-After Island" had its beginning when she was walking in the woods near her home catching glimpses of wild creatures and wondering who or what might be there for her to see next.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you By John Bernard

Here's a surprising fact ... Did you know that in the entire history of big league baseball since 1900, there have been only two 9-inning games in which a team scored in every inning ... You'd think it would have happened more often than that, but it hasn't ... The Cards achieved this feat in a game against the Cubs in 1964 ... The only other 9-inning big league game in which it happened this century was in 1923 when the Giants scored in every inning in a game against the Phils.

How fast does a golf ball go when it's first hit? ... When a good golfer hits a golf ball, it is traveling at about 170 miles per hour as it comes off the tee!

Did you know that the New York Yankees originally had a different nickname? ... When they entered the American League in 1903, their nickname was the Highlanders ... They didn't become the Yankees till 1913.

Walter Fleet, Who Mixed Hockey and Classics, Told Off Battling Players in Greek and Latin

Hockey and classics. Not a common pairing, but these two words sum up the life of a remarkable Princeton octogenarian.

Walter R. Fleet, 194 Moore Street, has devoted 60 of his 82 years to hockey – as a player, coach and for 40 years from 1926 to 1966 as one of its first and most active officials.

At the same time, he considers himself, foremost, to be a classical humanist. At the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton, New Brunswick, (Canada's oldest university) where he had an outstanding career, he won the Crochett Prize in Classics and Alumni gold medal for Latin composition.

Years later, college players were no doubt stunned to hear an official berate them in Greek and Latin as he tried to break up a fight on the ice.

"For Years of Service." His career as an official received recognition not long ago when he was presented with a bronze plaque by the National Ice Hockey Officials Association of which he is still a full member for his "many years of outstanding service and outstanding contribution to ice hockey..."

One of the highlights of his career as an official occurred on New Year's Day, 1951, when he was 55. During a Lawrenceville School Invitation Hockey Tournament at Baker Rink, Fleet was a referee in six of the eight games. He received $5 a game and had to take care of his own room and board, he recalled.

Another contest that remains in his memory was an exhibition game at Baker Rink in January, 1936, between Princeton University and the U.S. Olympic Team before the latter sailed for Europe. "It was an excellent, fast and clean game, well played by both clubs," said Fleet. It was won by the Olympians, 2-1.

For half a century from 1926-76, Baker Rink "has been another home to me," says Fleet, who seems to have total recall for names and details of every game in the past.

Although he never weighed more than 125 pounds as a player and never saw, he said, a helmet until he came to the United States, he was a scrapper on the ice. "All we wore then were gauntless and skin pads. In hockey either you have guts or you don't."

Whistles Are for Blowing. He was tough as an official. "I wasn't afraid to blow the whistle on anybody," he said, something he feels isn't always true of today's officials. And he was tough as a teacher, demanding respect from his students.

In conversation, he will suddenly make a quick move to show that he hasn't lost any of the speed he had on the ice. One gets the feeling that he would like to go on forever and that the only thing that has ever gotten the best of him is time.

As late as 1969 when he was 74, he was still active enough to engage in one "final slap shot." Then, Dr. Paul Chesebro, Headmaster of the Hun School, and a former colleague of his at Princeton High School, invited him to help Hun with its ice hockey club program. For two months, Fleet coached a group of 23 boys to five wins, two losses and a tie.

Following ten seasons as a player in Canada from 1910 to 1920 where he was center on his high school team, captain of the Provincial Normal School team, the school's first formal organized team; center for the Fredericton Capitals, a senior semi-pro outfit, and center for his university team, and coach of the Sussex High School team in Sussex, New Brunswick, for six months, Fleet came to this country in 1920 as professor of Latin, Greek and mathematics at Wyoming Seminary in Kingston, Pa. He was also assistant coach of baseball and track. He stayed six years.

During his stay in the holiday season of 1923-24, he was coach and player of a pick-up University of New Brunswick hockey team which made a tour of Canada and the U.S., playing eight games in two weeks. It won all but one. Captain of the team was his younger brother, Charles.

In September, 1926, Fleet came to Lawrenceville School as a Master in Latin and English and coach of the hockey team. He remained two years before moving on to Princeton High School where he began a 30-year career. He taught Latin and English and was head of the school's math department for five years.

At the same time, he was taking a four-year graduate course in classics at Pr University, receiving Degree in 1930, and ref three or four games a w

"We officiated in a white sweater with an NCAA emblem on the left side," Fleet recalled.

The Eastern Hockey Officials Association, the first body of organized officials in the sport in the United States, had its beginnings in the early 1930s. Fleet was one of the initial members and helped hold the struggling organization together. The EHOA first appeared in the NCAA Official Ice Hockey Guide in 1934-35.

Fleet also officiated in the Tri-State Hockey League which expanded later to the Eastern Amateur Hockey League, in the NCAA member colleges Divisions I and II from 1928 to 1958 and for many years in the Ivy League.

He was president of the Metro (N.J. and N.Y.) Chapter of the EHOA and NIHOA in the late 1940s and early '50s and saw the number of chapters expand from two to more than 30 across the country.

Honesty to himself as a referee and to the players was always the one rule he used as an official, he said. In a community filled with extraordinary citizens, Walter R. Fleet must be counted as one.

NINI WINS THIRD

In Legion Baseball, Dana Nini won his third game without a loss last week as Princeton Post 76 took two and lost one in the Mercer County American Legion League.

Nini limited Hightstown to four hits and benefitted from six Hightstown errors. All of Princeton's runs were unearned in the 4-1 victory.

Three consecutive misplays in the gave Princeton one run and the victors picked up two more in the seventh, when Hightstown committed another error with the bases loaded. Princeton collected five hits off losing pitcher Dave Malloy, one a triple by Dave Robinson and another a double by Al Kandell.

In its most recent start, Princeton was stopped, 11-2, by Hamilton, the Northern Division leaders.

Princeton took a short-lived, 2-t, lead in the third when it scored both its runs, Jim LaPlaca doubling home one. He had two of Princeton's five hits off Hamilton hurler John Walker.

Hamilton put the game out of reach with a seven-run fourth-inning. Johnny Miller (0-1) took the loss for Princeton.

In between, Princeton rallied from a 7-0 deficit to nip North Trenton, 10-9.

Needing four runs in the final inning to win after North Trenton had scored one in the top of the frame, Princeton got two on Kandell's clutch single, tied it on Miller's squeeze bunt and won it when losing pitcher Jeff Young was called for a balk.

Robinson also doubled home two runs earlier in the game for Princeton while catcher Dave Seagers had two hits. The losers outhit Princeton, 12-9. Steve Hurlburt got the win.

PRINCETON IS VICTIM

Of Surging Hopewell Post. Princeton lost its seventh game in 11 starts Monday night to surging Hopewell Post 339, 7-0, as Hopewell, after a poor start, moved into second place, two points behind West Trenton, the leaders in the Northern Division of the Mercer County American Legion League.

Hopewell starter Pete Florkiewicz, who had to leave the game in the seventh when he was struck in the eye by a liner off the bat of Al Kandell that glanced off his glove, and Keith Van Fleet limited Princeton to four hits. One of the four was a triple by Dave Robinson, who was left stranded.

Hopewell (8-5) scored single runs in the second and third and locked it up in the fifth when J.D. Henderson singled with the bases loaded. Hopewell sent four men across in the inning. Carl Nazarro (0-3) took the loss for Princeton.

Community Liquors defeated Ivy Inn in their second game, 15-2. Ivy held the lead, 8-7, in the third inning, but Community Liquors scored six runs in the sixth. A double by Mary Anderson and a triple by Debbie Ficcaro were the big blows. For Ivy Kim Davidson had two triples and Kathy Cifelli two doubles.

Ivy Inn also stopped Landau's, 11-5, despite Landau's Joan Modazelwski going three-for-four.

Koffee Kup routed Zephyrs early in the week, but lost to Conte's, 12-16. Conte's combined seven hits for seven runs in the first inning. Peggy Wood and Carol Ann Mezzella hit homers in the sixth inning. Shelley Craig hit a two-run home for Koffee Kup.

TOURNAMENT TUESDAY

For Pee-Wees in Golf. The annual Pee-Wee Boys and Girls Golf Tournament, sponsored by the Mercer County Park Commission, will take place on Tuesday at the Princeton Country Club on U.S. Route 1. Starting time is from 9 to 10, with Wednesday the rain date.

All boys and girls through age 12 who live in Mercer County are eligible to enter. Prizes will be awarded to the winners.

PROGRESS REPORT: After claiming his first national tennis title, Jay Lapidus of Princeton will seek a berth this summer on the U.S. Junior Davis Cup team.

FIRST NATIONAL TITLE

For Jay Lapidus. Jay Lapidus of Princeton has won his first national tennis title.

At the National Interscholastics held at Duke University, Lapidus, seeded No. 2 in a draw of 128 players, advanced to the finals without the loss of a set. His opponent in the finals was top-seeded Tom Cain of Richmond, Virginia, ranked No. 12 nationally in 1976. Lapidus defeated Cain, 7-5, 6-4, to win the championship.

In addition, Lapidus and his doubles partner, Jeff Embersits, seeded No. 3 in the doubles draw, defeated the second-seeded team of Cain and Reynal, 7-6, 6-4, to reach the finals, where they lost a three set match to the top-seeded team.

Team points accumulated by Lapidus in singles and doubles play brought the National Interscholastic team title to the Lawrenceville School for the first time.

Lapidus is presently in Houston competing with nationally-ranked juniors from the country to try to qualify for the National Junior Davis Cup. Players selected for the Cup squad will travel together on the national circuit during the summer.

VICTORY ON 18TH GREEN

At Springdale. One up with one to go, Harold Crane and Jim Litvack won the last hole Sunday for a 2 up victory in the annual Governors' Cup Tournament at Springdale Golf Club. They defeated Dick Thompson and Mike Meyers, who had been the medalists in the qualifying round two weeks ago.

In the semi-finals Saturday, Thompson and Meyers eliminated Jack Childress and Lyle Fitch, 3 and 2. Crane and Litvack had an even narrower margin in their semi-final match, edging Jack Mudge and Jim Turgeon, 1 up.

The consolation round winners were Ben Hermann and Terry Booth, who won from Eddie Donovan and Ken Dawes. The Hermann-Booth team reached the finals with a 5 and 3 triumph over Bob Cronin and Jim Schwartz, while Dawes-Donovan won from Alan Frank and Dick Schrantz, 2 and 1.

The 1977 Governors' Cup champions succeed Bud Allaire and Dean Chace as holders of the trophy. Earlier this year, Litvack had teamed with Will Reed to win the Curtis W. McGraw Memorial Tournament, based on better-ball of partners for 36 holes of medal play.

CONTE'S IS 5-0

In Adult Softball. Center Sports and Conte's each won games last week to continue to lead their divisions in the Adult Softball League. C. Square C. trails in Division A by one-half game, while Conte's has a game and one-half lead over Ivy Inn in Division B.

In a see-saw battle, Center Sports defeated C. Square C., 9-8, as Jack Petrone had the game-winning hit in the bottom of the last inning. Jamie Petrone had homered earlier for the winners.

Conte's played its best game of the season in defeating Ivy Inn, 11-3. Every starter for the winners had at least one hit; Ed Coldren took the honors with three.

In other action, Mike's Tavern won a slugfest with Princeton Market, 16-14. John Leiggi had three hits and was the winning pitcher.

UNDEFEATED RANKS CUT

To One in Business Softball. Only McGraw Hill is undefeated in the Princeton Business Softball League after PPF-Forrestal's Impressive 8-2 victory over ETS in the American Division. Bob Milinowicz' home run provided winning-pitcher Joe Frangipani with the support he needed in gaining his eighth victory.

ETS rebounded in the second game of its doubleheader with a 13-5 victory. John Barone (4-for-4), Bill Degler (4-for-4) and Rick Lamoto (3-for-4) led the offense for ETS.

Tubesales routed EMR, 18-1, to slip past PPL-Forrestal into second place. Carmen Iaderosa (five hits) and Joe Trasky (three hits) wielded the big bats as Tom Samanick won his fourth.

Firmenich, in an important game for possession of fourth place, defeated FMC, 15-3, to remain in the thick of the race. Tom Hummer and Bill Swanhardt Sr. had perfect nights at the plate. Tim Costro was the winning pitcher.

In a battle for fifth place, Squibb defeated American Cyanamid, 13-9. Fred Henderson slammed two home runs and Joe Cuneo stroked another. Ray Severa was the winning pitcher.

In a make-up game, New Jersey Bell outlasted Johnson & Johnson, 14-13.

American Can continued its winning ways in the National Division with two victories over PAR, 16-10 and 21-11. Bill Gulvin was the winning pitcher in both ends of the doubleheader. Gulvin, Ray Kozan and Mac Leily hit home runs.

Norelco shut out EMR, 20-0, in the first game of their double-header and won the second, 7-5, to continue its winning streak. John Garner, backed by Vern Washington, John Shere and Jerry Daniels' homeruns and fine defensive play by short stop Chris Root, won both games.

McGraw Hill had little trouble in remaining the only undefeated team, as it romped over GFDL and RCA by scores of 23-1 and 22-1.

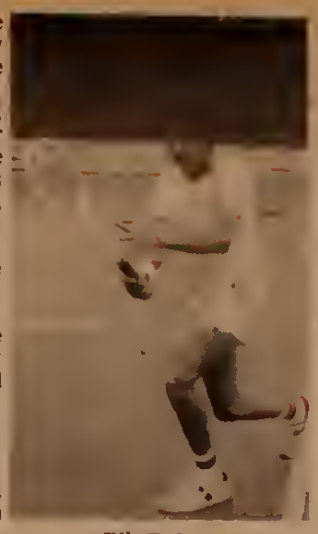
PRINCETON-ARMY WIN

Over Oxford-Cambridge. Led by a runner who saved his best for the last, a combined Princeton-Army track team defeated Oxford-Cambridge at West Point last week. With first places only counted in the score, the Americans won, 12 to 4.

Craig Masback, captain of the Tigers, climaxed a fine career when he ran a 4:04.24 mile to break the Princeton record by nearly four seconds. It was his final appearance in Orange and Black, and gave him the distinction of having set fine times for the distance both indoors and out. In the IC4-A meet in Jadwin Gym last March, he broke the Tigers' indoor mark with a 4:01.8 clocking. The best previous outdoor time hy a Princetonian was 4:08, set nine years ago by Al Andreini.



Filp Ruben

Five other Princeton athletes won events for the Americans, matching Army's performance against the British. The invaders were thin in number, and were not able to enter a man in every one of the 16 events.

Their success was no greater in two other meets held earlier in the month. Harvard and Yale topped them at Cambridge, Mass., 14-3, while Cornell-Penn won, 12 to 4 in Philadelphia. The next series of meets is scheduled for 1980 in England.

USISKIN IS VICTOR

Meanwhile, the men's singles is under way with the finals scheduled for this holiday weekend. Seeded players are Jack McCarthy, Jr., Keith Usiskin, and Steve and Phil Ebersole in the main round, and Mark Knowlton and Charlie Westoff in the seniors.

Entries for the women's, men's, and mixed doubles tournaments are being taken at the tennis office at 71 University Place.

RUBEN WINS TOURNEY

In Boys Tennis. Flip Ruben, 101 Lafayette Road, on Friday won the Middle States National Qualifier for Boys, 16, at Berwyn, Pa. He defeated Kevln Glickman in the semi-finals and Josh Sarner in the finals.

In winning, Ruben earns the opportunity of representing the Middle States Tennis Association as the number one player in the Boys 16's at the Nationals. He has won all of the Middle States tournaments for boys 16 that he has participated in this year.

Town Dump, a Meeting Place for Politicians and Philosophers, Running Out of Land

To most Princeton residents, the dump on River Road is a convenient place at the far end of town in which to dispose of trash, the used-up, worn-out, rejected, replaced and trimmed end-products of a throw-away society.

To others, such as the members of the tri-partite Sewer Operating Committee under whose aegis it falls, it is sanitary landfill and subject to the rules and regulations of the Department of Environmental Protection, Bureau of Solid Waste Management.

By either name, dump or landfill, it is also a source of firewood, tree trunk slabs with which to make coffee tables, and flagstones for a terrace. "Resource Recovery" is a term for modern technology and multi-million dollar installations which automatically shred trash of all kinds and winnow out metal, glass and paper for recycling. But people have been coming to the dump for years to find serviceable chairs and cast-off kitchen cabinets, small motors with usable parts and such items as baby carriages or tricycles in need of minor repairs.

The dump is also a great open air meeting place, a high, cleared area with a fine view across to the hills of Kingston, where many of the private garbage collectors gather beside their trucks to harangue politicians of any stripe and to lament the state of almost anything. For them the dump is an essential part of their business as they ply the streets of Borough and Township to give backdoor service to those who wish to pay for it.

A dumping area, a brush pile and a depository of heavier construction debris all in one, it is presided over in a friendly way by George Allen, 12-year veteran municipal employee. Six days a week, from 8:30 to 3:30, and in all weather ("This winter, it was COLD!" he recalls with a shiver) Mr. Allen tends the dump as carefully as a gardner his vegetable patch, and offers an almost out-of-fashion service-with-a smile to all comers.

It is he who helps dig the pit for the dumping area, "birming" up the dirt around it to a level specified by the D.E.P. From the cab of his bulldozer, he packs down the trash in the dump area daily, pausing to allow people to recover any resources they might wish, and covering it with a layer of dirt. No buzzards circle over this dump, no rats are present; when Mr. Allen gets a deer hit by a car, or fish trimmings from the fish market, he is careful to cover them up well and promptly.

In the spring when a steady stream of cars wends its way to the
